of the Herald, &c.
Old Malvolie said that some men had greatness thurst upon them, and of a truth this is the case with one Hover, who is for the hour the Magnus Apolla of this notional city. He is the man whom Brownson hauled over a hot stove the other day, in a bookseller's shop, in the heat of a wrangle as to the merits or demerits of Catholicism. though a German by birth, is a most rabid "native American," with a mind stuffed to repletion with though a German by birth, is a most rabid "native American," with a mind stuffed to repletion with the crude bigotry of the Beeches, Harpers, Davises, and others of that ilk. These ideas he was pouring forth most copiously for the especial edification of Mr Philosopher Brownson, who was somewhat nettled at the closeness of their application to his own position, and so put torth his hand and snaked Mr. Hover over the stove. Somebody or other has said—I dont know but it was the celebrated Roman Consul, who was immortalized in Gen. Harrison's laugural—that it is remarkable upon what trivial circumstances the destinies of empires often depend. Well, the remark of this celebrated somebody is just as true now as ever, and has been most pointedly illustrated in the present case. By the stove squabble in Green's book store, Brownson has been made the leader of the "anti-native," and Hover the leader of the "native" party. The moment that Hover's coat was singed, the "natives" caught him up, engaged a hall, and set him to work lecturing against catholicism, Jesuits, foreign influence, and all that sort of stuff. Hover goes it with a perfect rush, drawing crowds after him, and riling up the evil passions of the multitude with almost as much success as the Hon Lewis C. Levin of Philadelphia. Hover is just the man to get up a gang of church-burners—ranting, hotheaded, bigoted, ignorant, and vain of his babbling powers, and may yet, though adreadful small man, be the cause of most serious mischief here. I believe it was a gnat that got into the lion's noatril and caused the royal beast to kick up such a fuss, as is described by Æsop, and this German gnat is just about competent to make as much mischief with that raging lion, an excited populace. The d—I take such pestilential fellows, say I; they are always making more troable than their heads are worth.

always making more trouble than their heads are worth.

"Laugh while you may." There is a Mr. Colton here, from your city, administering laughing gas to "the ladies only." He has taken a large Hall here, and has given several exhibitions of this character in the afternoon. It is said that the ladies have not the least hesitation in taking it, and that they do act queerly sometimes. This is to be expected, and hence ladies only are admitted. The lecturer, or administerer, amuses his fair audience by inflating and sending up balloons to the dome of the lecture room, and with various other experiments.

want a port on the Atlantic coast. The Washington Globe (the government organ) talks "like a book" upon the subject, and it does seem to me, that we have got to whip the English once more, before they will stay whipped. Do you know, sir, that the Americans took 2425 vessels of various classes from the English during the last war? It's a round number, and yet we could do a more extensive "jeb" than this at the present day, and not "sweat a hair." The country was never so well prepared for war as at this moment, and if England earnestly desires it, why "give her some."

Boston is particularly dry of news just at this moment, all eyes being turned to Washington, to Texas, and to Mexico, to see what the prospect is of peace or war. During the last war with England, old Boston was for the most part a tory colony of John Bull, and so far as the ipse dixit of Abbot Lawrence, or the other great bugs that assume to be Boston, will go, she would in the event of another contest be as much British as ever. There is among this class of people the most intense and narrow selfishness you can meet with in any part of the whole Union. They think the whole United States is Massachusetts; all Massachusetts, Bostou; all Boston, Beacon street; and all Beacon street in their breeches' pockets. With such enlarged views it is not singular that they spurn Texas, would give up Oregon, and would not object to bring the whole country again under the British crown.

The steamer Caledonia, Captain Lott, will sail hence for Liverpool on Thursday the lat instant. She will take out a full complement of passengers, and among them the celebrated dentist, Dr. Hitchcock of this city, who intends to make the tour of Europe. By this boat will go out your late files of the Herald, which will give John Bull the true sentiments of us Yankees upon the subject, suit well among the great mass of our people; and we are thankful that there is at least one press that dares to speak out true American sentiments, without fear of losing advertising patronage, a Varieties.

According to a statement in the "Western (Missouri) Journal," about 7000 bales of hemp, the crop of last season, will be shipped from that place this spring. The same paper states that the aggregate amount, if the season had been favorable, would have reached 20,000 bales. It is thought that 20,000 bales will be raised in that neighborhoot this year.

Cincinnate is "going ahead" steadily. It is estimated that 1500 houses will be crected during the present season, among which are included eleven churches, Houses of Correction and Refuge, &c.

The Pittsburg American corrects an estimate now going the rounds of the papers, which gives the loss by the fire in that city at $3,476,000, and adds: "Our estimate of the whole loss was $9,000,000, two-thirds of which was personal property"

The collections for Pittsburg in Philadelphia have reached over $20,000.

We see it stated in the Pittsburg papers that the Monongahels House is to be rebuilt with greater magnificence than ever.

The iruit crop of Maryland has not suffered by the late sold weather as severely as was at first reported. It is said the crop of peaches will be, in all probability, an average one, and that other fruit has suffered but comparatively little.

A gentleman of Baton Rauge, La, has invented an office or parior stove with a gasonaeter attached, by means of which enough gas can be extracted in day time to make night as brilliant as day, without the aid of oil or candle. The gasometer can be placed in the same room, or at any suitable distance, by the means of tubes or conductors.—The plan is very simple, and in the opinion of those who have seen the plan, cannot fail to succeed.

STATISTICS OF LOWER CANADA.—We gather the following information from a report of the Legislative Council committee on the population and property of Lower Canada. The total population is 691,293. Of Deaf and Dumb there are 725, of Blind 523, of Idots 950, of Deaf and Dumb there are 725, of Blind 523, of Idots 950, of Lunatios 308. The proportion of these classes to the whole population is extraordinarily great, far greater, we believe, than in the United States. The proportion of Deaf and Dumb is only exceeded by the solitary cases of Switzerland and Baden. These physical disabilities are somewhat unusual in a comparatively new country. We should look for them rather in old, over-populated countries, in the squalid deas of great cities, where want and wretchedness congregate. The number of occupied acres of land $7,540,450, of which 3,083,940, or nearly one half, are under cultivation. The produce in wheat, harley, rye, oats, peas, lodian corn, buck wheat and potatoes, for the year 1843, was 21,365,913, Winchester bushels—Fotatoes was by far the largest crop, next eats, then barley, peas, buckwheat, &c. Of wheat the product was 914,909 bushels. There are in the province sixty-three colleges, academies, convents, &c., and one thousand five hundred and fifty, six elementary schools, making a total of 1,629 educational establishments, strended by 56 579 pupils. Of wool 1,209,782 pounds were produced in 1843 and 2,264,537 yards of fulled cloth, familel, linea and cotton were manufactured.

Afril 30.—Wm H Millet vs. Wm G. Sterling and Jas. Normand.—Magisterial Jurisdiction.—This was an action brought to recover damages against the deelendants, for an illegal wriction from premises situate at No. 133 William street, it appeared that the plaintiff occupied the above premises, as tenent under Normand, one of the defendants, in the fall of 1844; and in November last applied to the Justice of the Fourth Ward Court, Mr. Sterling, for a warrant for eviction, alleging he (the plaintiff), had not paid his rent. In the meantime plaintiff, it was alleged, put in an affidavit, stating he had paid up his rent, which effidavit was filed in the Court, and also asked that the issue should be tried by a jury. The clerk demanding a fee, which the plaintiff did not deem legal, he consented to try the case before the plaintiff alone. A day or two subsequently, his counsel came into Court, and the affidavit referred to appearing to be lost, the counsel drew another affidavit, upon which he demanded a trial by a jury. The clerk of the Court, it was alleged, hereupon cried out, "If you put in a dozen affidavit, it will do you no good, for I want a judgment." The Court told the counsel togo cn, which he declined doing for his client (Millet,) who was defendant in the cause; whereupon the Court granted a warrant to dispossess, and the plaintiff was evicted. The plaintiff brings suit against the landford, and includes the plustice, on the ground of the alleged irregularity in the proceedings on the part of the Justice.

The Courr charged that the first question the jury had to decide was, if the Justice was liable. No Magistrate could be held liable for an error of judgment—but the present was a proceeding under a particular statute giving power to the Justice to set. It appeared by this testimony that these proceedings commenced on the 27th November, from which day the adjournment took place to the 29th, and on the 29
